Jodi Picoult
Read by a Full Cast

A captivating story about two women, centuries apart – one of whom is the real author of Shakespeare’s plays – are forced to hide behind another name to make their voice heard, from New York Times bestselling author Jodi Picoult.

In Elizabethan London, young Emilia Bassano is a ward of English aristocrats. Her education has endowed her with a sharp wit and a gift for storytelling, but still she is allowed no voice of her own.

Forced to become a mistress to the Lord Chamberlain, who oversees the theatre, Emilia discovers the power of stories to beguile audiences. Secretly, she forms a plan to bring a play of her own to the stage – by paying an actor named William Shakespeare to front her work.

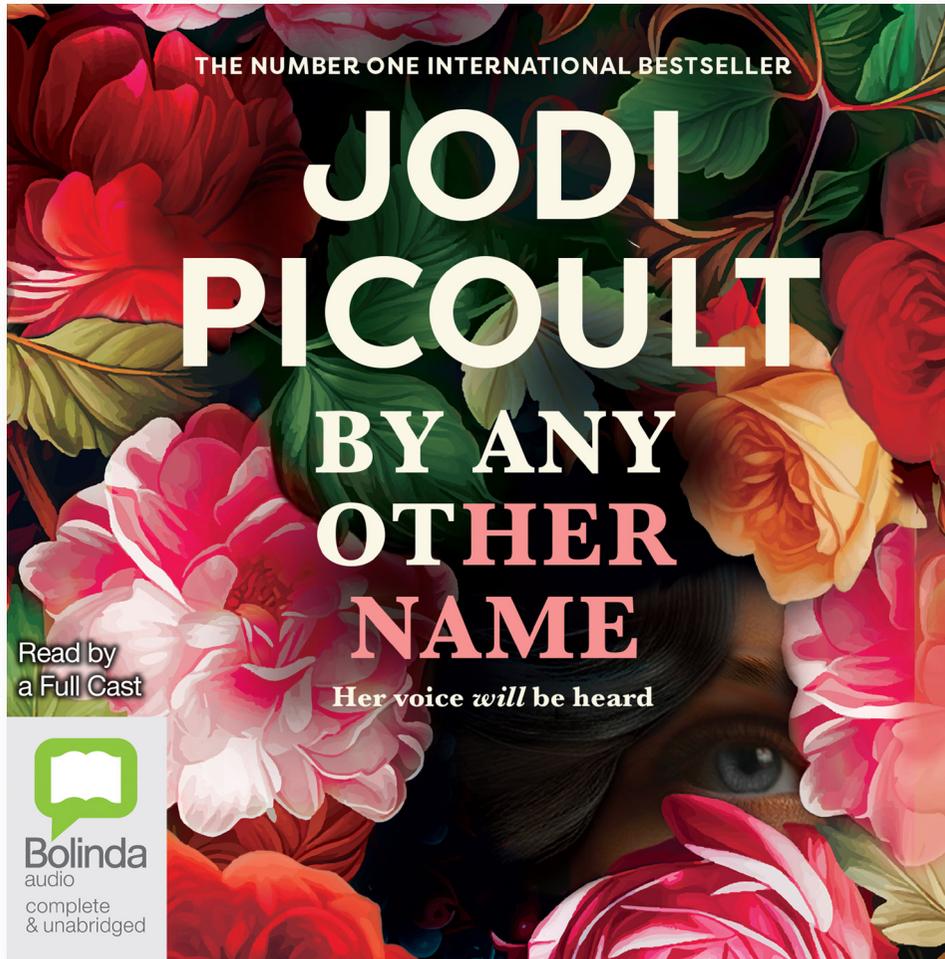

In modern-day Manhattan, playwright Melina Green finds a woman’s voice is still worth less than a man’s. But, inspired by the life of her ancestor Emilia Bassano, Melina takes a lesson from history and submits a play under a male pseudonym ...

Jodi Picoult is the #1 New York Times bestselling author of 30 novels, including Mad Honey, Wish You Were Here, The Book of Two Ways, A Spark of Light, Small Great Things, Leaving Time and My Sister’s Keeper

‘Her best one yet. Jodi Picoult has combined her trademark research with an astonishing and heart-rending story, embedded in truth, and turned it into a gripping novel.’ – JoJo Moyes, author of Me Before You

‘You’ll fall in love with Emilia Bassano, the unforgettable heroine based on a real woman that Picoult brings vividly to life. Book clubs will embrace this rich, inspiring story’ – Kristin Hannah, bestselling author of The Nightingale

Death at the Sign of the Rook

Jackson Brodie #6

Kate Atkinson

Read by Jason Isaacs

Adult New Release

Crime & Thriller | January 2025

The highly anticipated return of irresistible private eye Jackson Brodie in the newest instalment of this bestselling series.

Welcome to Rook Hall. The stage is set. The players are ready. By night's end, a murderer will be revealed.

Ex-detective Jackson Brodie is staving off a bad case of midlife malaise when he is called to a sleepy Yorkshire town, and the seemingly tedious matter of a stolen painting. But one theft leads to another, including the disappearance of a valuable Turner from Burton Makepeace, home to Lady Milton and her family.

Once a magnificent country house, Burton Makepeace has now partially been converted into a hotel, hosting Murder Mystery weekends. As paying guests, a vicar, an ex-army officer, impecunious aristocrats and old friends converge, we are treated a fiendishly clever mystery – one that pays homage to the masters of the genre, from Agatha Christie to Dorothy Sayers.

Atkinson's three critically lauded and prize-winning titles set around World War II are Life After Life, A God in Ruins and Transcription

Atkinson was awarded an MBE in 2011 and is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Literature

'How delicious to have Jackson Brodie back, this time in a story that starts off in Agatha Christie's world but soon becomes a landscape that could only have been crafted from the pen of the incomparable Kate Atkinson.' – Ian Rankin, bestselling author of Knots and Crosses

'Sharp, droll and knowing as ever, Atkinson has huge fun with the set-up; the supporting cast is terrific, and the rueful Brodie, ever more mindful of the passing years, feels like an old friend.' – Guardian

Miriam Margolyes

Read by the Author

Adult New Release

Autobiography | January 2025

Award-winning actress, bestselling author of This Much is True and Britain's naughtiest national treasure is back, and she's as outrageous as ever.

From declaring my love to Vanessa Redgrave to being fed cockroaches by Steve Buscemi, from turnip-based comedy with Blackadder to being farted on by Arnold Schwarzenegger, from Graham Norton's sofa to Alan Cumming's camper van, my life has been (and continues to be) an uproarious adventure.

Oh Miriam! has been such a constant refrain in my life, said in all kinds of tones – laughs, surprised gasps and orgasmic sighs – that it had to be the title of this audiobook. And with a cast list that stretches from Churchill to DiCaprio, Dahl to Dietrich, Princess Margaret to Maggie Smith, I've so much more to tell you and so much more to say.

My chapters range from 'How to Stay Married' to 'Don't Let the Bastards Get You Down'. Discover how to break the thickest conversational ice; why swearing is actually good for you (though not on the Today programme); the unexpected things I learned at school and what my Spice Girl name would be. Not to mention my Tale of the Unexpected and my very own Vagina Monologue.

Buckle up and join me on another unforgettable adventure, but this time through my heart and head ...

Young Ellis Lacey dreams of life beyond the confines of her tiny Irish village, but unlike her beautiful sister, Rose, Ellis's gifts are of a more practical nature – she has a head for numbers, and is a loving and dutiful daughter. Yet her ambition cannot be hidden and soon is noted by the Parish Priest, Father Flood. Via a church contact, he arranges for Ellis to travel to America where a job opportunity has arisen in New York with a reputable 'merchant of Italian origin'.

Ellis finds lodgings in an eccentric boarding house and ekes out an existence in the cosmopolitan melting pot that is 1950s Brooklyn, impressing her employer, outwitting her landlady and even falling in love. It seems her dream is truly becoming a reality. But then fate intervenes – a family crisis back home forces Ellis to make a choice between the past and the future, the old world and the new.

The Catalans

Patrick O'Brian

Read by John Hopkins

A story of tumultuous love, complex faith and one man's desperate bid to reclaim his humanity.

Summoned from his medical practice in China by a bevy of anxious aunts, Alain Roig returns to his Catalan hometown to discover he has been nominated by family members with vested interests in the ancestral property to prevent an impending marriage between his cold, ascetic cousin Xavier and Madeleine, a quiet, introspective village girl of unusual beauty. As Alain seeks to understand his cousin's complex motivations for wooing the unhappy girl, he is slowly drawn into Xavier's dark crisis of faith, the well-worn pattern of the sleepy Catalan days and the tight circle of village gossip that surrounds Madeleine.

Throughout, Patrick O'Brian's slow, seductive narrative lures the reader into the landscapes, rhythms and passions of Catalonia, while his subtle, insightful characterisation paints a psychological portrait of a unique way of life and two very different men – one generous and impulsive, the other desperate to revive in his soul the dying flames of affection which he senses could be his salvation.

Patrick O'Brian is internationally recognised as one of the best novelists of his era

He published his first novel, Caesar, at the age of 15, and went on to write over 30 more novels, including his highly prized Aubrey-Maturin series

He died in January 2000 at the age of 85

'You are in for the treat of your lives. Thank God for Patrick O'Brian: his genius illuminates the literature of the English language, and lightens the lives of those who read him.'

The untold story behind the hit true crime podcast The Clearing, this unforgettable memoir traces one daughter's moving quest to understand her larger-than-life childhood as she searches for the truth about her father, the serial killer Edward Wayne Edwards.

One evening in 2009, April Balascio was searching online, as she had been every night, for unsolved murders in the towns her family had lived growing up, when she stumbled across the latest investigations into the "Sweetheart Murders" cold case. All at once, the buried memories of her father's dark history were awakened, and she knew she had to take action. She picked up the phone to call a detective and the rest is infamous true crime history.

In her unflinching memoir, Balascio bravely reveals an astonishing tale of a lifetime of manipulation, unexplained upheavals, and silent fear. Some part of her had always known what her father was capable of, but the full truth of how she came to these revelations is as riveting as it is quietly terrifying. Through searing storytelling, dedicated research, and intimate insight, Raised by a Serial Killer is a gripping, courageous memoir unlike any other.

April Balascio is an author and daughter of American serial killer Edward Wayne Edwards

The Woman in the Cabin

Becca Day

Read by a Full Cast

An absolutely addictive and unputdownable psychological thriller, from the author of The Girl Beyond the Gate.

Every day, in a remote cabin hidden deep in the woods in the Scottish Highlands, Mary wakes up before dawn to make breakfast from scratch. She tends the garden and feeds the animals. Every night, Mary makes sure she has dinner on the table for when her husband Cal gets home from work.

Mary is the perfect wife, and like any good wife she knows her job is to keep her husband happy.

But lately, as she notices her first wrinkles appear, she can sense Cal change. A scowl at dinner not being ready on time, a too tight grip as he leads her to the bedroom tells her he's noticed too. And old memories are coming back too, of her life before the cabin ...

Then she finds a stack of letters hidden under the floorboards detailing a life eerily similar to her own. They're addressed to her: 'To the next woman.'

If she's not the first to play the role of Cal's perfect wife, what happened to the woman in the cabin before her? And how long does she have until she is next?

The Specimens

Mairi Kidd

Read by Gerda Stevenson

In her historical fiction debut, The Specimens, Mairi Kidd empowers two women of the horrific Burke and Hare tale.

Inside the grand walls of Edinburgh's 19th-century scientific institutions, anatomists began to map the secrets of the human body in order to discover new medical innovations.

But to the horror of the local population, a shortage of bodies soon led to the gruesome act of graveyard bodysnatching, a heartless crime that would soon spread like a disease throughout the city. And when stealing cadavers turns to murder, Burke and Hare became two of the most notorious serial killers of their time.

This is the story of those grim events, told for the first time through the eyes of Susan and Helen (Nelly), two women caught up in those horrific matters.

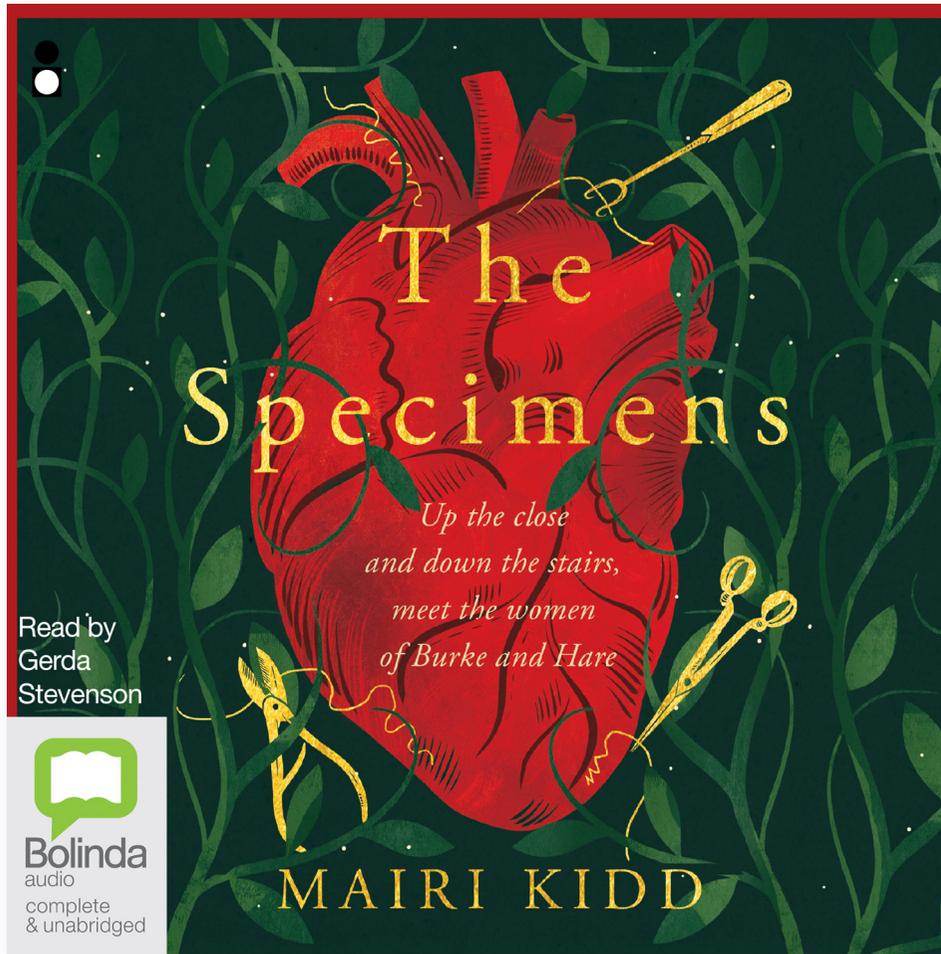

Mairi Kidd is a former Head of Literature, Languages and Publishing at Creative Scotland and was formerly Managing Director of Barrington Stoke, a prize-winning publisher

This gripping, historical tale will stay with you long after reading and make you want to know every harrowing fact of the time. It's equal parts dark, depraved and fascinating; this is one you won't want to miss.' – Ali McBride, publishing director at Black & White Publishing

GIRL FRIDAY

Read by the Author

Bolinda

& unabridged

The hilarious and moving memoir about women at work, pay inequality and the alienating nature of the 21st century workforce.

Girl Friday – a job title used in 1970s workplaces for a junior administration assistant or receptionist. Common synonyms include junior office chick, shit-kicker, donkey worker, general dogsbody or gofer (go for this, go for that).

This is a story about resilience and reinvention, and it is also a story about how we are not human resources, we are human beings.

Kristine was 15 when she lied to get a junior office job as a Girl Friday in 1975 – she took the job because she thought she only had to go to work on Fridays. She went on to experience the full gamut of working life, from joblessness, self-employment, mind-numbing office roles, toxic workplaces and out-of-control workloads. Miraculously, Kristine clocked up 40 years of admin work, and then in her 50s she became unemployable and ready to tell all.

In 1984, Kristine Philipp was the subject of a half-hour episode of Faces of Change, an ABC TV documentary series (and book) about women in Australia hosted by Anne Deveson

Philipp graduated with BA Hons in cinema-media studies in 2000, has written and performed stand-up comedy shows at Fringe Festivals

Philipp's creative non-fiction short stories are published in a local literary journal, on ABC online and are produced as audio stories

A True Story of Love,
Family and Community

ALANA VALENTINE

Alana Valentine's mother, Janice, was remarried in 1969 at the Wayside Chapel, run by the charismatic and controversial minister Ted Noffs and his wife Margaret. Many years after her mother died, Alana found the wedding photo, and the longing to speak to her mother about that day drove her to seek out others who had begun new chapters of their lives at Wayside.

What Alana found was a remarkable group of people, whose stories are told here with kaleidoscopic effect. Wayside is a uniquely Australian institution where people have been welcomed for decades in spite of social taboos around race, class, religion and sexuality. Over the years, the likes of Ita Buttrose, Andy Gibb and Jane Powell have been married there, and the Chapel has been supported by famous ambassadors such as David Wenham, Claudia Karvan and Leah Purcell.

Told with grace and insight by one of Australia's most acclaimed playwrights, Wed by the Wayside is a deeply personal quest and a vibrant chronicle that reshapes our understanding of this country's social history.

Alana Valentine is one of Australia's most acclaimed playwrights. She is the author of more than 20 published works, including two books of non-fiction

Valentine's plays include Wayside Bride, Watershed: The Death of Dr Duncan, Wudjang: Not the Past and Barbara and the Camp Dogs

For Barbara and the Camp Dogs, Valentine was awarded both a 2019 Helpmann Award and 2020 Green Room Award for Best Original Score, as well as a Helpmann for Best Musical and Green Room for Best New Australian Work

'This mosaic of memoir, reportage and social history is – like the man and community at its centre – warm, spirited, inclusive and gently but unapologetically radical.' – Emily Maguire, author of An Isolated Incident

Not Just the Wife of the General Manager

Sally Warriner

Read by the Author

A rollicking memoir of one woman's life on outback cattle stations, and an homage to the many unsung women like her.

It was the 1980s and Sally was in her mid 20s when she returned from a backpacking sojourn and hitchhiked to Australia's far north. But instead of moving back to Canberra as planned, she stayed. After marrying a cattle station manager, Sally lived and worked with him on various stations until she was 50, ingraining herself into the lives of the characters who inhabited these isolated places.

With wit and sass, Sally tells the story of how she was so much more than just a wife of a station manager (despite what some of the top end blokes thought). Among other things, she was a nurse (dealing with local accidents, assisting the Flying Doctor service and making emergency 400 km round trips through the outback with sick children), a mother (bringing up several children, not all her own), a travel agent, a social secretary, a host and an organiser (including of Kerry Packer's New Year's Eve parties).

This is a story about adventure, resilience, the unexpected journeys we need to go on to find ourselves, and having the courage to do something for yourself.

Sally Warriner gained her nursing degree at Canberra Hospital in 1972 and went on to train in accident and emergency and intensive care departments in London hospitals

Returning to Australia, Warriner took a position as a Registered Nurse at Broome Hospital, focusing on obstetrics and paediatrics

Warriner moved to the Northern Rivers in 2013, where she has become involved in the community through a variety of volunteering roles. She has previously worked at The Sanctuary private treatment facility in Byron Bay

'Shining a light on the unique and often bonkers world of the Australian cattle station, this is an engrossing, funny and poignant memoir about one woman's resilience and positivity. ...'

– Hugh Bonneville, actor and star of Downton Abbey
