Bonded in Death

In Death Novel #60
J.D. Robb

His passport read Giovanni Rossi. But decades ago, during the Urban Wars, he was part of a small, secret organisation called The Twelve. Responding to an urgent summons from an old compatriot, he landed in New York and eased into the waiting car. And died within minutes ...

Lieutenant Eve Dallas finds the Rossi case frustrating. But when she finds a connection to the Urban Wars of the 2020s, she thinks Summerset – fiercely loyal, if somewhat grouchy, major-domo and the man who'd rescued her husband from the Dublin streets – may know something from his stint as a medic in Europe back then.

When Summerset learns of the crime, his shock and grief are clear – because, as he eventually reveals, he himself was one of The Twelve. It's not a part of his past he likes to revisit. But now he must – not only to assist Eve's investigation, but because a cryptic message from the killer has boasted that others of The Twelve have also died. Summerset is one of those who remain – and the murderous mission is yet to be fully accomplished ...

Carl manages the area's swanky and successful spa and hotel, while Roy runs a nearby gas station and harbours grand plans to build it out into an entire amusement park, complete with a roller coaster. But when news breaks about a new highway to be built nearby, bypassing Os and leaving the town cut-off and isolated, it's clear that something has to be done ... even if the methods are bound to be dirty. Fortunately, Carl and Roy have experience with just that kind of work.

Meanwhile, the town sheriff has gotten his hands on new technology that will enable him to take a deeper look at a slate of unsolved murders from years past – including that of his own father. And just as the sheriff reopens his investigation, the death toll begins to climb. It's like Roy says about his roller coaster: 'Once it's rolling, it's too late to get off.'

Until, a prime suspect materialises. Another Hollywood hopeful. Only to be shot dead by a sniper using a weapon that turns out to have been catalogued in a previous murder. And another, before that. It's not long before more bodies begin piling up.

What makes the murderous spree baffling is the apparent lack of connection among the victims. Is this the work of a random thrill killer, the toughest of all cases to unravel?

Memorial Days
A Memoir
Geraldine Brooks

Many cultural and religious traditions expect those who are grieving to step away from the world. In contemporary life, we are more often met with red tape and to-do lists. This is exactly what happened to Geraldine Brooks when her partner of more than three decades, Tony Horwitz collapsed and died on a Washington, DC sidewalk.

After spending their early years together in conflict zones as foreign correspondents, Geraldine and Tony settled down to raise two boys on Martha's Vineyard. The life they built was one of meaningful work, good humour and tenderness. But all of this ended abruptly when, on Memorial Day 2019, Geraldine received the phone call we all dread.

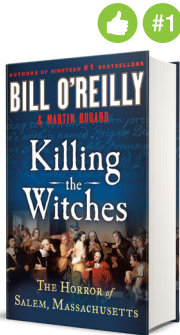

Three years later, she booked a flight to a remote island off the coast of Australia with the intention of finally giving herself the time to mourn. In a shack on a pristine, rugged coast she often went days without seeing another person. There, she pondered the various ways in which cultures grieve and what rituals of her own might help to rebuild a life around the void of Tony's death.
