The Weekend

T.M. Logan

When a group of friends rent a converted farmhouse in the Yorkshire Dales, they have little idea that this one weekend may change the course of their lives forever.

While out on a walk, a storm descends and the friends take shelter in an old mine. Inside, they discover a backpack filled with more money than they've ever seen, and agree to hand the money to the police at the first opportunity. But as the storm continues and time passes, they think again. Because there are secrets festering at the heart of this group. Debt. Blackmail. A career on the brink. Problems that could be solved instantly with an unexpected windfall.

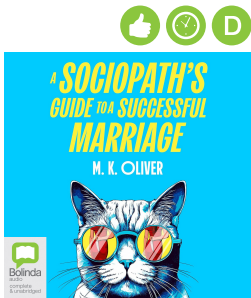

And perhaps they don't know each other as well as thought they did.

Before long, six good friends find themselves sliding headlong into a world of deceit, treachery, betrayal and murder ...

When I Kill You

B.A. Paris

Nell Masters is certain someone is following her. There are silent calls to her office, and a huge bouquet of flowers arrives without a card. And there is a reason, because Nell has a secret that she's hiding from everyone in her life, including her new partner, Alex. But Alex also has secrets of his own.

Fourteen years earlier, when Nell went by the name Elle Nugent, she witnessed a student, Bryony Sanders, getting into a stranger's car, who was later found murdered. Elle was convinced she knew who it was and her obsession with Brett Parker, the man she accused, led her down a dangerous path ...

Now Nell just can't shake the unnerving feeling of being watched. Has someone from her past discovered her new identity? Or is there something even more deadly at play?

The Papua Trilogy #1
Peter Watt

World War I, France. When Jack Kelly, a captain in the Australian army, shows compassion towards his prisoner Paul Mann, a brave and high-ranking German officer, an unexpected bond is formed.

Once the Great War is over, both soldiers return to their respective lives, only to find that events have changed their worlds forever. In Australia, Jack is suddenly alone with a son he does not know, while the photograph of a beautiful German woman he has never met fills his thoughts. Meanwhile the Germany that Paul had fought for is vanishing under the influence of an ambitious young man named Adolf Hitler ...

A new beginning beckons them both to Papua – a beautiful but dangerous land of rivers of gold and fearless, cannibalistic tribes – where fortunes can be made and lost as quickly as a life ...

Sing us a song of the forest, of the Wood King who rules there, and the tithe he demands ...

No matter how far Emeline Lark runs, the song of the forest reaches her, luring her away from her dreams of the stage and back to her small town and its superstitions.

But every superstition is rooted in truth, and when her grandfather goes missing, Emeline will be forced to return to Edgewood and the forest beyond.

There, even Hawthorne Fell, a brooding tithe collector, cannot dissuade her from her path – a path that will lead her into the court of the fabled Wood King himself – and into a bargain with the deadliest price.

HAS A FAMILY DISPUTE
TURNED DEADLY?

THE DROWNING

FIONA
LOWE

BESTSELLING AUSTRALIAN AUTHOR

CC Cilento's best memories are of spending every summer holiday running wild in and out of the Friend family beach house with her cousins James, Ollie, Felix and Lily. It's the next best thing to having brothers and sisters. They've continued the summer tradition into adulthood, getting together annually at the shack with its absolute beach frontage.

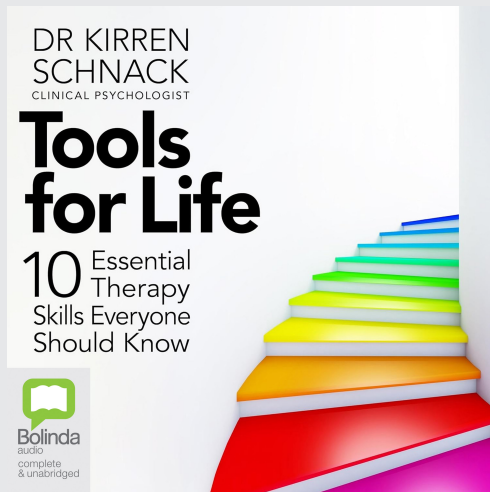

But now a bombshell has dropped – the four sibling cousins have now officially inherited the property but with a fifth share unexpectedly bequeathed to CC. What starts out as the perfect gift, and a way of keeping the family connected forever, quickly devolves into an emotional power struggle. Half of them want to keep the legacy intact, while the others want to sell – and each side will do anything to make it happen. Soon, CC can't tell friend from foe.

When a body is found on the shack's beach, has this family dispute turned deadly?

Best Australian Ghost Stories

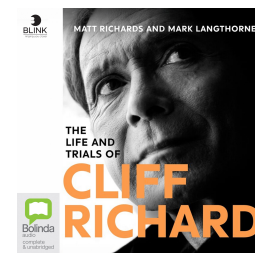

Spine-Chilling Tales of Hauntings, Apparitions and the Unexplained
Graham Seal

Have you ever seen, heard or felt something that cannot be rationally explained?

Australia is troubled by the departed spirits of convicts, bushrangers, drovers, nurses and miners. People have seen spectres in pubs, theatres, lighthouses, asylums and by lonely waterholes, including perplexing phenomena such as the Spirit Stones of Mayanup, Quinn's Light, the Guyra Ghost, the Humpty Doo haunting and the Min Min lights. Master storyteller Graham Seal recounts the sinister legends of ghost towns, blasted mines and other ill-omened places. He uncovers the histories behind the most haunted sites in Australia, our Bermuda Triangle, the convict-era ghosts still troubling the Hawkesbury River, phantom ships and gruesome unsolved crimes which have left unsettled spirits.

Whether real or not, our ghosts exist most powerfully in the stories we tell about them. We've been frightening ourselves with these yarns for a long time.

DEATH IN

YUENDUMU

A DEAD MAN • A YOUNG COP A BLACK AND WHITE DIVIDE

STEVEN SCHUBERT

ABC AWARD-WINNING JOURNALIST

Just hours after his grandfather's funeral in the remote Northern Territory community of Yuendumu, 19-year-old Warlpiri man Kumanjari Walker was dead. He'd been shot three times by police constable Zachary Rolfe during an attempted arrest, after Walker had stabbed the officer in the shoulder with a pair of surgical scissors.

Three days later, Rolfe was charged with murder, the first time a police officer had been charged for killing a First Nations person in the Northern Territory in 130 years. Following Rolfe's acquittal, a coronial inquest was called, where Rolfe made sensational allegations about institutional racism within the police force.

In Death in Yuendumu, the ABC journalist who broke the story gives a clear-eyed account of the failed systems that led to this tragedy. Steven Schubert recounts the tragic and disturbing tale of a young Indigenous man with a difficult past and uncertain future; an ex-military policeman who became mired in allegations of misconduct; a family in mourning; and a community fighting for justice.

Death in Yuendumu is powerful, haunting, riveting and unforgettable – it describes a world in which everything is black and white, and yet nothing is.
