A Deadly Episode

Hawthorne & Horowitz #6
Anthony Horowitz

The first book in the Hawthorne series is being made into a major feature film. The actors have been cast, the script written, and filming started.

But when Hawthorne and Anthony visit the set, they find a far from happy family. The director's pretentious, the screenwriter's an eco-warrior, the two stars hate each other, and the producer has run out of money.

And things are about to get much, much worse. In the middle of shooting, the actor playing Hawthorne is stabbed – which leaves the real Hawthorne with no choice. He has to step in and investigate his own murder.

Because the killer may not have got the right man. Was it Hawthorne himself who was meant to be the target?

A Deadly Episode is the most personal case Hawthorne has had to deal with so far.

The Marriage Trap

Victoria Purman

1960s Adelaide. The Langley family – Olive, Len and their two daughters, 20-year-old Cathy and 10-year-old Evelyn – live a peaceful suburban life, although Grandma Langley turns up each Sunday lunch like a bad fairy to castigate them for their dubious morals.

Trainee teacher Cathy thinks women have it tough. No sex until marriage, then no work and child after child, all desire sacrificed to church, husband and family. Once she's married it's all over. A life no longer her own.

Young Evelyn wants to be a fairy princess ... until she sees for herself the price women pay for such dreams.

When the new contraceptive pill arrives, women sense freedom. But powerful forces are aligned against women's reproductive choice, and a fight begins. A fight that takes on doctors, the might of the Catholic church and the outdated morality of previous generations.

Capture

Winner of the Miles Franklin Award for The Labyrinth

Amanda Lohrey

'Every sentence is a pleasure...Her characters immediately come alive.' SATURDAY PAPER

James Mather is a psychiatrist in his 60s. He is invited to take on a new group of patients. All he knows about them is that each one claims to have been abducted by aliens.

His wife, Deborah, is sceptical, but he gets going anyway. His patients tell mesmerising stories. There's Anthony, for instance, who was camping one night by the Aral Sea; or Mary, the owner of a beauty salon, confronted by a ball of light moving towards her in her bedroom.

James's research assistant Lucy Cheng sits in on each session. She's an attractive young divorcee, who has made a study of anxiety, and who takes notes about each conversation.

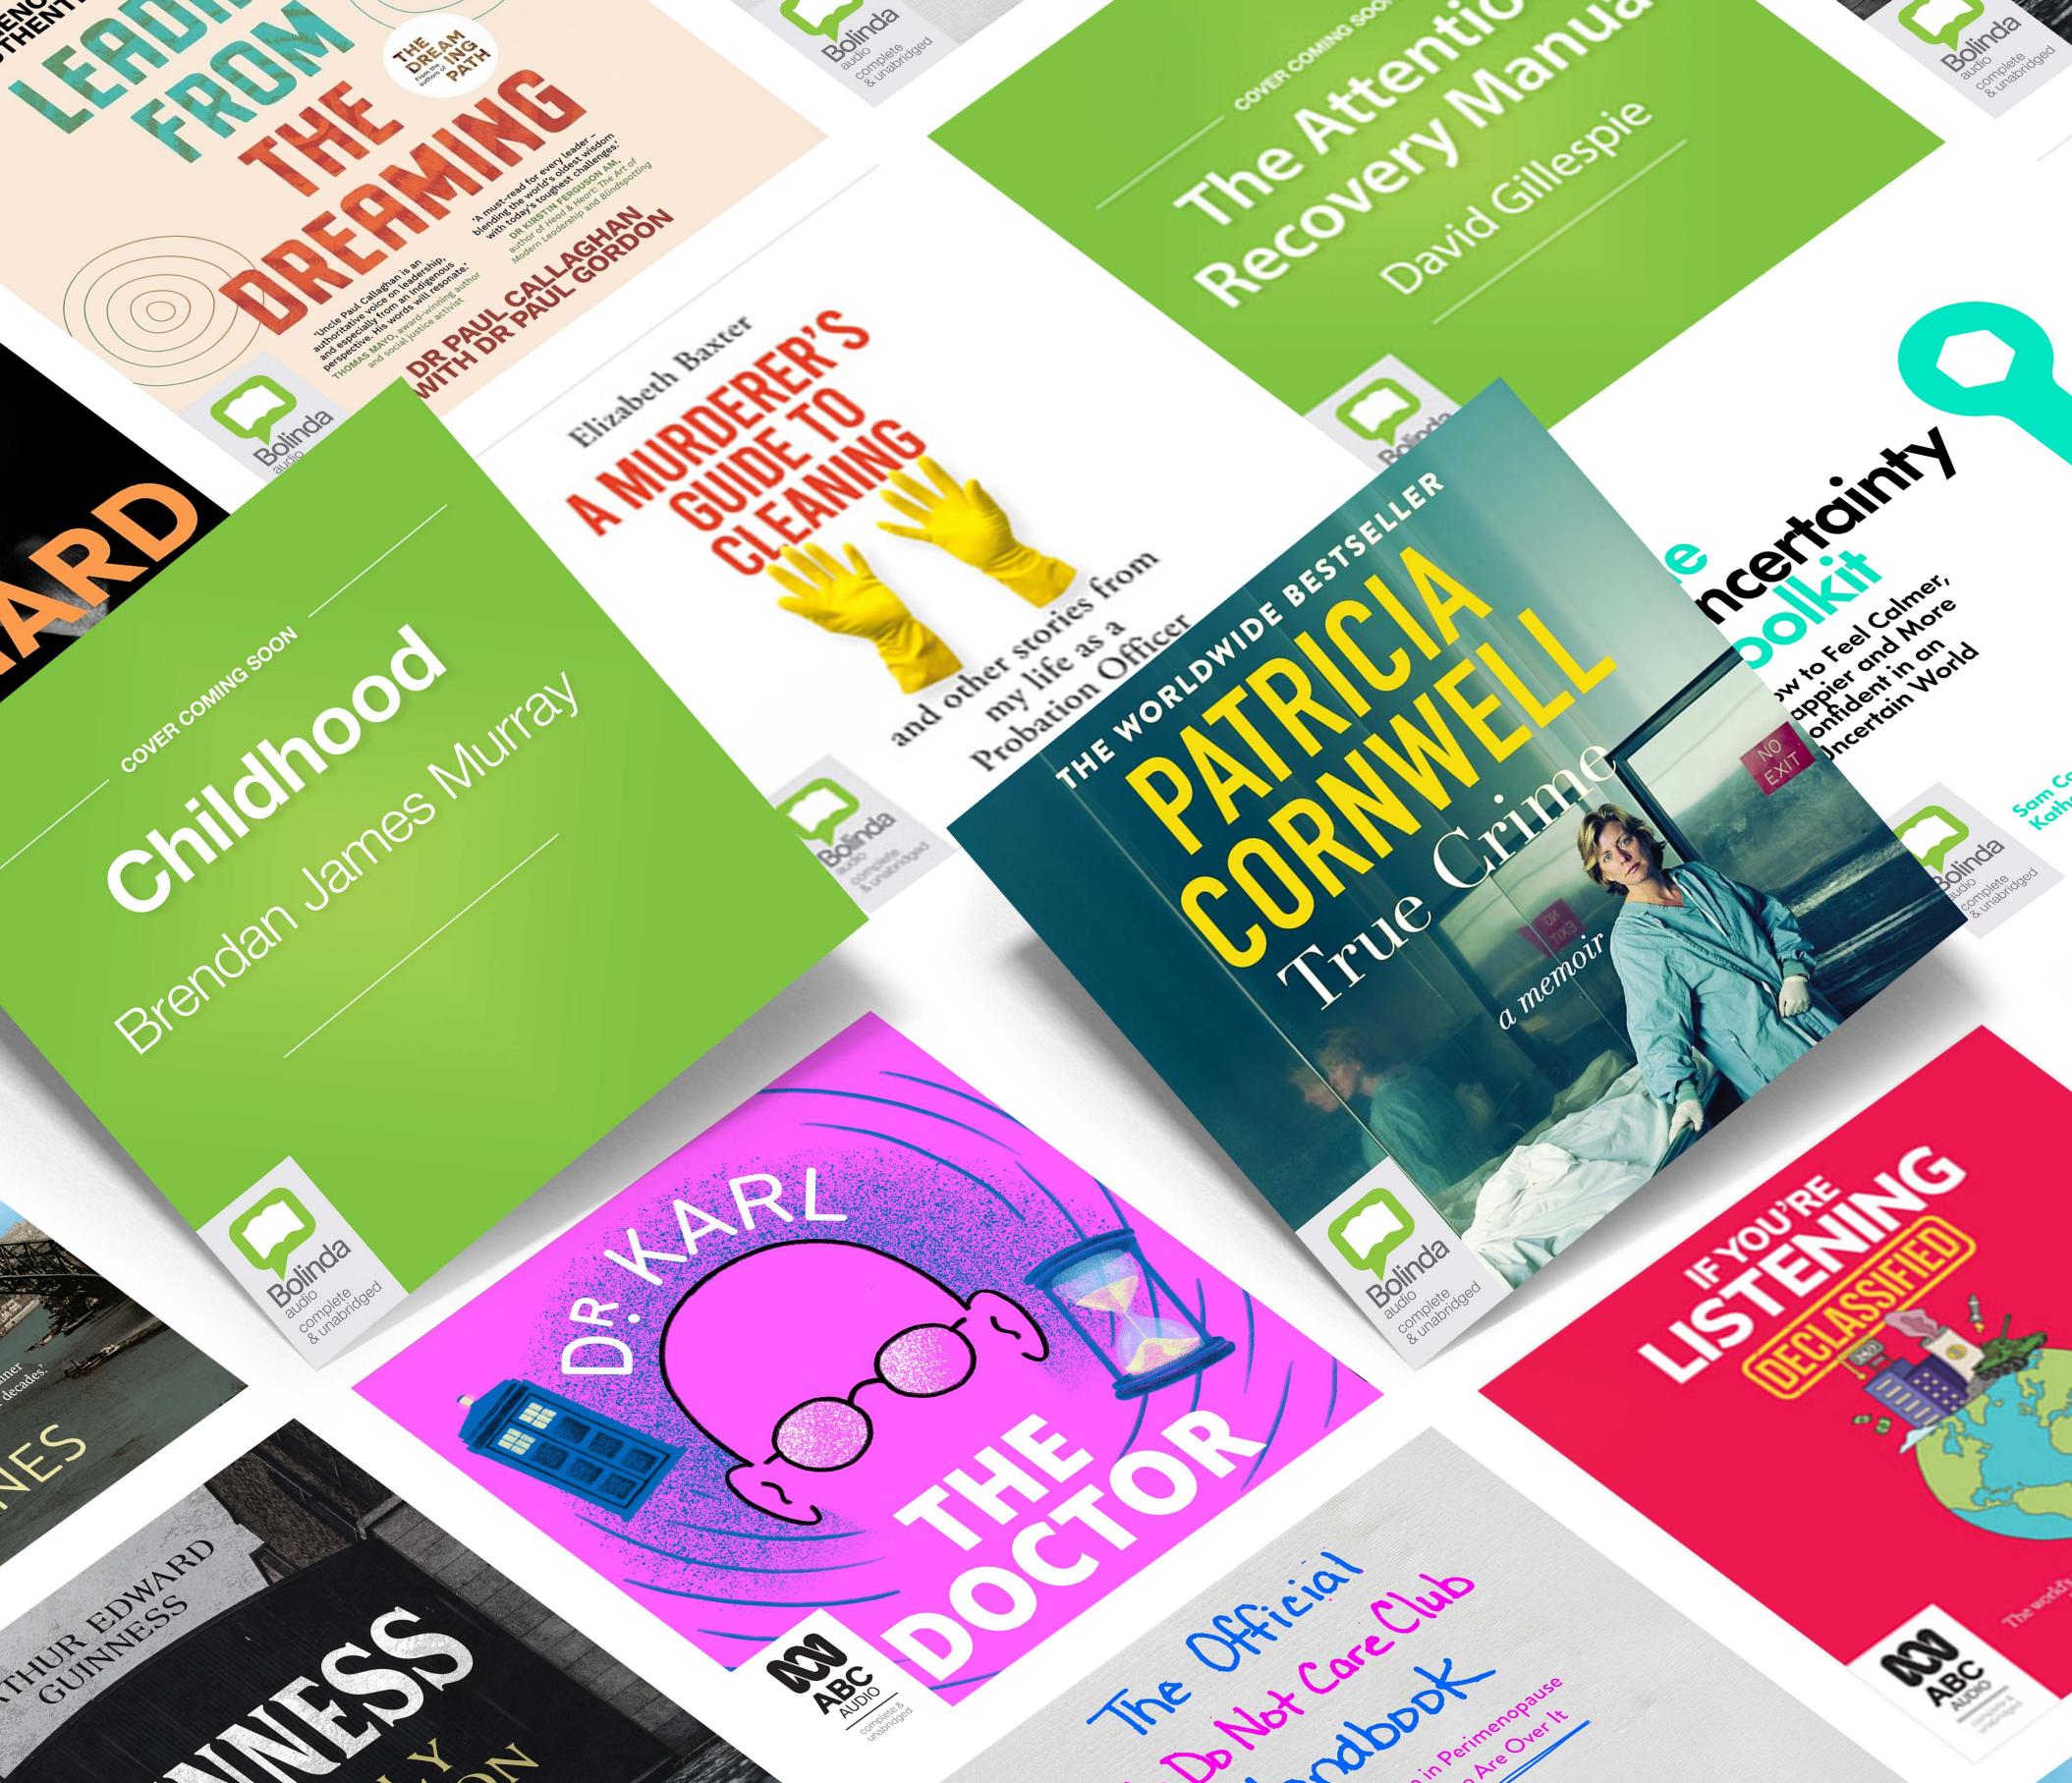

Capture is a strange philosophical fable about what we can believe in a post-truth world. It will beguile and baffle its readers. Amanda Lohrey is an extraordinary writer. Her novel might be full of crazy stuff, but who could deny its sanity?

'A deft and poetic writer'
– The Guardian

'Lohrey's body of fiction always has philosophical foundations for its warmly human stories.'

A MURDERER'S GUIDE TO CLEANING

and other stories from my life as a Probation Officer

Elizabeth Baxter is a retired Probation Officer who worked in the British prison service for 25 years until its privatisation

— Autobiography

A Murderer's Guide to Cleaning

And Other Stories from My Life as a Probation Officer
Elizabeth Baxter

Probation Officer Elizabeth Baxter has heard it all. Thieves, rapists, drug dealers, burglars, murderers, abusers and arsonists – they've all confided in her.

Baby-faced Stella hurled a brick through her ex's window and threatened to cut off his ... enough said. Jake burned down his grandfather's shed and prized model-railway collection. Steve set up a marmite-based distillery in his cell – to make cleaning products. In Elizabeth's opinion, he is Britain's most fastidious murderer.

Recalling her 25 years in Britain's probation service, Elizabeth offers a fresh perspective on the criminal justice system. Warm and humane, A Murderer's Guide to Cleaning pays tribute to the work of probation officers everywhere, who not only protect the public, but often act as the final safety net for society's most vulnerable, from teenage asylum seekers to survivors of domestic abuse.

#1 NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR

Patricia Cornwell True Crime

a memoir

Patricia Cornwell

True Crime

Patricia Cornwell is best known for her international bestselling thriller series about forensic pathologist Dr Kay Scarpetta. Every story comes from somewhere, and Scarpetta's began when Patricia Cornwell embedded herself in a morgue.

In this achingly honest memoir, Cornwell excavates her own life, detailing her traumatic childhood being raised by neglectful parents, her father abandoning the young family on Christmas day, her mother being institutionalised twice, an abusive foster family and developing a parental relationship with evangelist Billy Graham's wife Ruth. Cornwell depicts a harrowing hospitalisation and near-death car accident. She unflinchingly shares overcoming obstacles that later gave her the ambition to become an award-winning police reporter. From there it was research in a medical examiner's office that would turn into a full-time job. She would become a forensic expert and worldwide publishing phenomenon.

Cornwell leaves no stone unturned in this deeply candid account of her life, offering inspiring insight into what made her into the international sensation she is today.
