The Heights

Ian Rankin

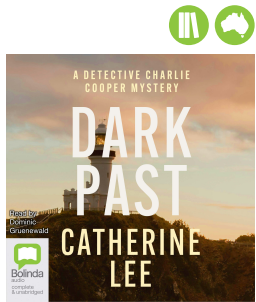

The Heights: a gleaming, high-end high-rise looming over Hyde Park. Newly built from steel and smoked glass, a billionaire's playground offering sumptuous suites for the global elite.

But when a night concierge is found murdered in the lobby, the building's rarefied atmosphere is shattered, and the gilded lives within come under intense police scrutiny.

In a world designed to keep prying eyes out, where the residents are not used to being held to account, born-and-bred Londoner Detective Gillian Gish must find a way past their power, wealth and unimaginable influence.

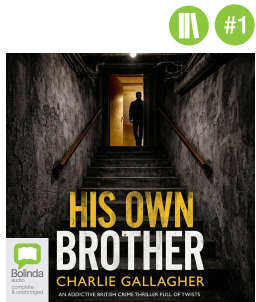

The rules may be different at the top – but is anyone truly above the law? Or could it be that the higher you rise, the further you fall ...?

DARK PAST

A DETECTIVE CHARLIE COOPER MYSTERY

CATHERINE LEE

The background of the entire page is a photograph of two young boys jumping into a calm body of water at sunset. The boys are in mid-air, their arms outstretched, and their reflections are visible in the still water. The sky is a mix of orange, yellow, and dark green, with silhouettes of trees in the background.

MICHAEL ROBOTHAM

TELL ME SOMETHING TRUE

I look along the road and notice how many people are standing outside their houses or watching from doorways and windows. Staring. Studying.

'Do you think this town will ever forgive me?' I ask.

'Not in a million years.'

Small towns are quick to anger and slow to forgive, but Arlo Hackett doesn't expect mercy when he emerges from a 12-year prison sentence and makes his way back to Yulara, a waypoint on Australia's Great Southern Road. The last time Arlo was home, his brother Luke was charged with a terrible crime and Arlo was found guilty by association. His return to the former goldrush town is like cracking open a time capsule full of hatred and violence, along with memories of the people he loved – the ones he couldn't save.

Yulara wants Arlo gone, or worse, but every insult and humiliation pushes him to confront what really happened all those years ago.

The truth will shock you, surprise you and break your heart.

'No one will ever forge a flawless novel, but with Tell Me Something True, Robotham has gotten as close to it as I've ever seen.'

— David Baldacci, #1 New York Times bestselling author

'A compelling, devastating story about family and the long shadows of the past. Tell Me Something True is unforgettable.'

— Karin Slaughter, bestselling author of the Will Trent series

'This compelling, intriguing and entertaining masterpiece examines the conscience of a whole town and should win every award going. Genius.'

Europa II

Greig Beck

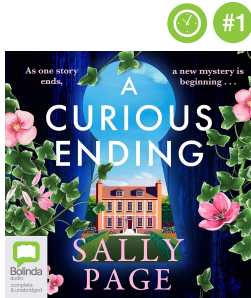

Four million years ago. The object slammed into the European ice with a sound like cracking bone. And from its ruptured shell poured something far worse than death.

The thing was a hollow, perfectly engineered nightmare – a spacecraft, delivery system, seed pod and birthing chamber fused into one horrifying capsule. And it vomited forth a horde of ravenous lifeforms that knew neither pity nor restraint.

Yesterday. The massive Russian vessel Syvatogor touched down on the icy moon despite urgent American warnings. Captain Alexi Novikov discovered the horrifying truth too late. The creature devours flesh, blood, mind and memory, then perfectly mimics its victim. And the horror they awakened has already slipped aboard their ship.

Now, only Alexi and the ship's loyal dog, Nishka, stand in its way. They have one mission: the horrifying creature must never reach Earth.

As the close proximity of Sweetwater binds them together, Brianna and Hayden discover a chemistry more serious than either of them can handle. But when a new friend's café is ransacked, Brianna and Hayden find a darkness that whispers behind all the small-town charm.

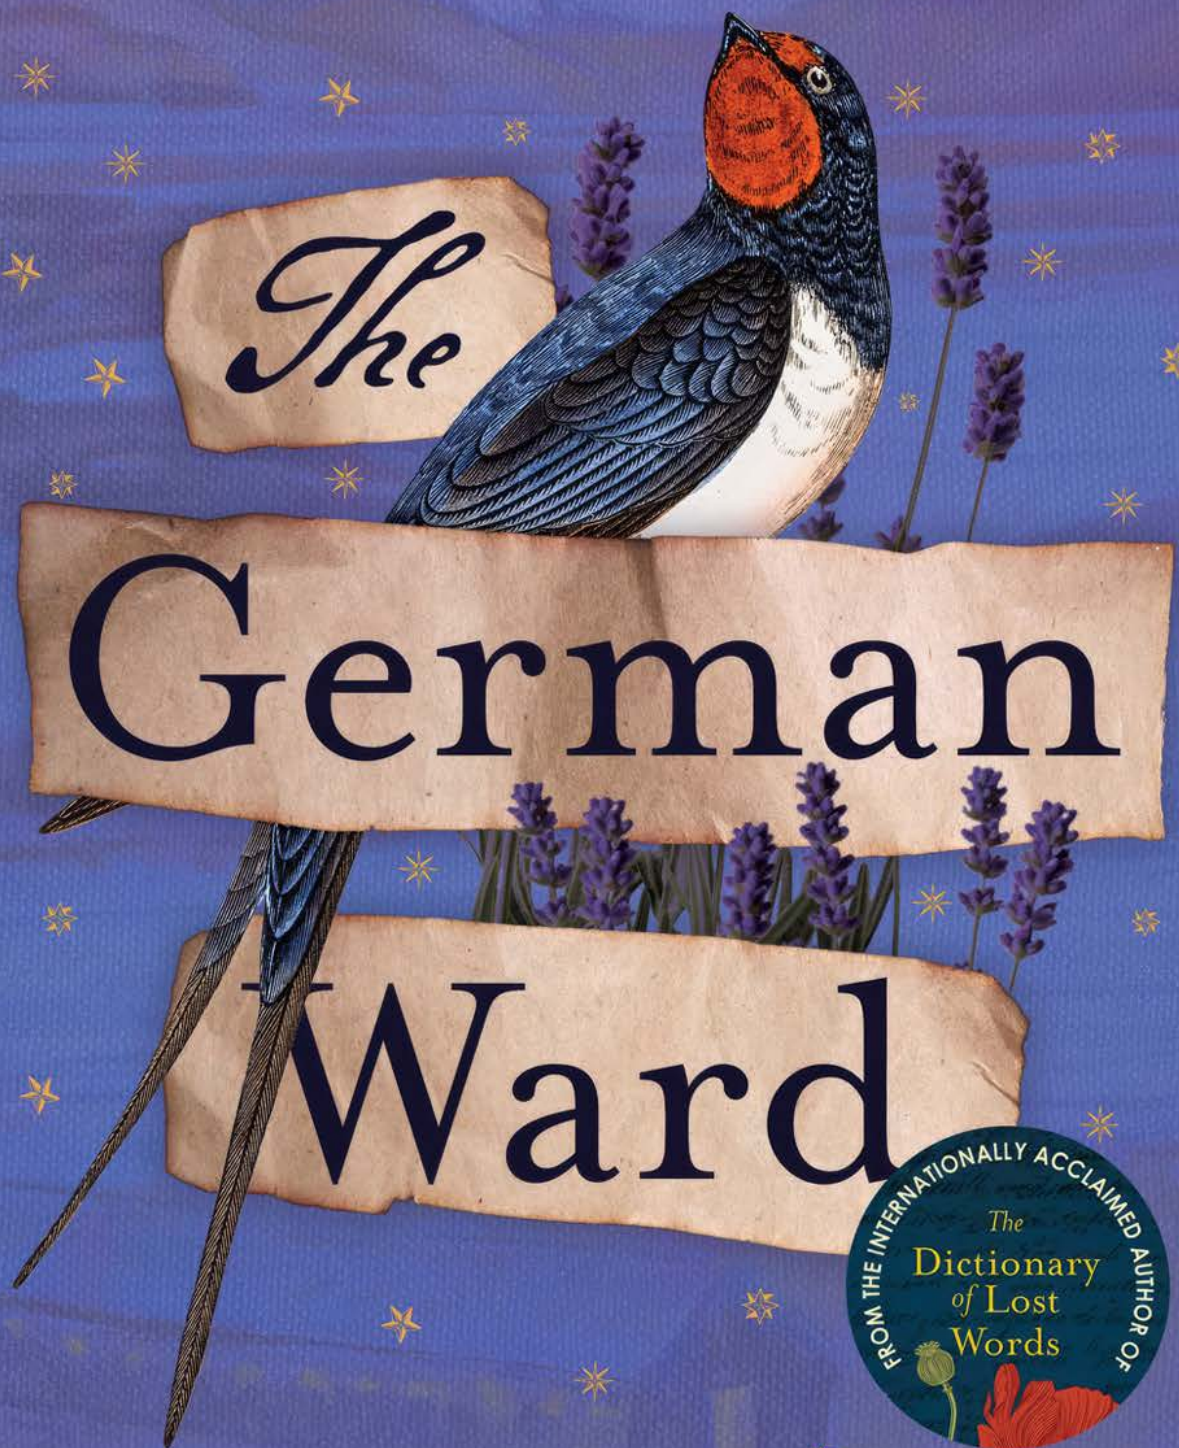

Can they drag Sweetwater's secrets out into the light? And is their love strong enough to weather the truth or will they be torn apart?

Read by Dominique Hamilton

Mandy Magro's other rural romances include Shadows of Wildstone, Weathering the Storm, Silverton Shores, Riverstone Ridge, Secrets of Silvergum and The Wildwood Sisters, among many others

Romance

This is a story about desire.

France, 1915. An English nurse and German doctor fall in love. He is a prisoner of war; she has never cared for rules. Their love is visceral and urgent, forbidden and doomed, and it would have gone unrecorded if not for a series of drawings found more than a century later.

At first the drawings seem insignificant, but the woman who finds them glimpses moments of intimacy and can't look away. The images become part of a puzzle she wants to solve: who were the lovers, what became of them, and what story of war was the artist trying to tell?

In this luminous tale of hope in the midst of darkness, Pip Williams expands the world of her bestselling novels, The Dictionary of Lost Words and The Bookbinder of Jericho. Sensual and sophisticated, The German Ward shows one of Australia's most significant writers reaching the height of her skills.

'An extraordinary work of poetic grace and raw beauty that will enfold readers in its powerful and moving narrative.'

— Karen Brooks, bestselling author of The Good Wife of Bath

'A thoroughly original concept married to beautifully rendered characters, immersive setting and intensely satisfying storytelling.'

— Melissa Ashley, author of The Birdman's Wife and The Bee and the Orange Tree
