The Chase

Dick Francis Novels #15
Felix Francis

Forty-nine-year-old Fabian Tulley is trying to run his own art gallery in London's Mayfair in peace. But someone seems determined to ruin his life. Accused of selling a fake Alfred Munnings painting, he is unable to prove his innocence because the police are holding the piece as evidence. While running a retail sale at Cheltenham Racecourse, some of his other paintings are vandalised. Then, a couple of men try to run him down in the racecourse parking lot.

To make matters even worse, his clients are being threatened to stay away from his gallery, and his landlords are trying to cancel his lease. Everything is against him, but with someone threatening his life's work, Fabian is determined to fight back.

With the help of Sid Halley, saving his business will prove to be the fight of his life.

Licensed to Love: The Agency Files #1
John Birmingham

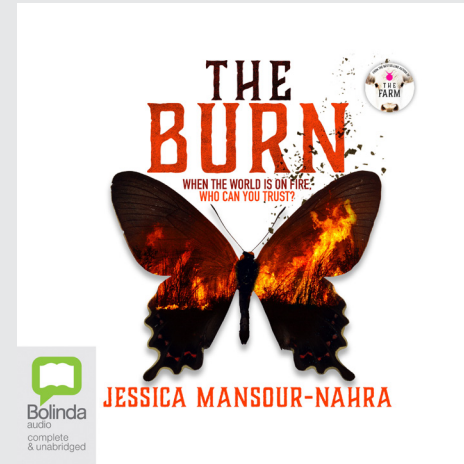

When travel blogger Sophie West flees London and her toxic ex for a fresh start in Santorini, the last thing she expects is to meet a mysterious artist whose eyes hold secrets deeper than the Aegean Sea.

Sophie glimpses the dangerous man hidden beneath Ethan Carter's easy smile. When she stumbles into a high-stakes art auction involving Russian criminals and a lost Leonardo da Vinci, it's revealed that Ethan is a former operative with blood on his hands and ghosts in his past.

Now Sophie is in the crosshairs of killers who don't hesitate to eliminate loose ends. The only thing standing between her and a bullet is a man trained to disappear.

As bullets fly across paradise and billion-dollar secrets surface, Sophie must decide: can she trust her heart to a man whose every kiss might be his last?

2030. Devastating bushfires have plunged Australia into lockdown. When stay-at-home orders lift, Carmen isn't relieved. Solitude has suited her too well.

Then Carmen's best friend Eleni and her boyfriend Dan convince Carmen to come on a road trip with friend Rhett to a remote location: a chance for escape, reconnection and laughter.

But the trip isn't what Carmen expects. Stuck in isolated cabins in dense national parkland, secrets spill out, new ideals are challenged and bitter arguments erupt. On the final morning, new fires are racing towards them, forcing the group to find another way out. But how, when the friends no longer trust each other with their lives?

Tense, timely, propulsive and unnerving, The Burn examines the myths we believe about ourselves and the people we love. With survival at stake, who do we become?

THE HIGHLY ANTICIPATED SEQUEL
TO BIG LITTLE LIES, THE #1 NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLER THAT INSPIRED THE MEGAHIT HBO SERIES.

It's been ten years since Perry Wright fell from a balcony at the Pirriwee High trivia night but best friends
Madeline, Celeste and Jane are still shadowed by his death.

When an anonymous package containing a severed finger arrives at the school, and a man in a green Volvo is seen lurking around the kids, everyone is uneasy.

Is the finger pointing to a mystery, or even murder?
A lie masquerading as the truth? Or a secret about to blow up their lives?

What is clear is that the truth will always hurt someone.

The World beneath Her Feet

Holly Ringland

In her late 30s, Maggie Byrd lives a charmed life. She works with fossils and gems at London's Natural History Museum, and shares a home with her best friend, Harriet, and her partner, Joe. However, beneath this carefully constructed facade lies a deeply buried past: the story of a guilt-ridden, heartbroken girl who left Australia in her early 20s and swore never to return. But then she inherits her beloved uncle's rewilded land in a lush valley of southeast Queensland ...

In the '90s, this wild place shaped Maggie when she was an angry, lost teenager. It was her sanctuary, where she experienced the intoxicating powers of friendship, first love and loyalty – until she betrayed everyone and fled. When the same land comes into her care, she is forced to face what we all cannot bury, abandon or forget.

The Extraordinary Florence Stoker

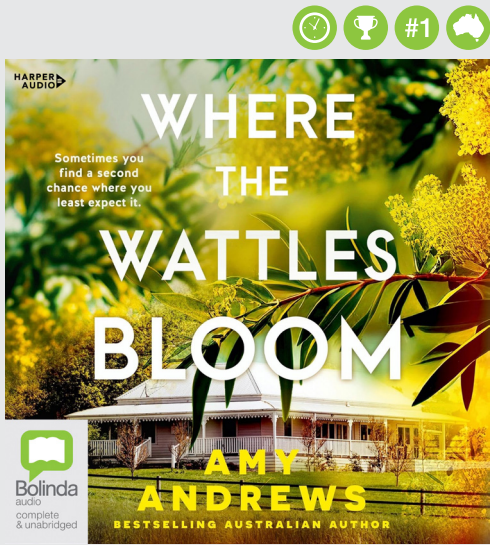

Karen Brooks

Dublin, 1878. When the witty and beautiful Florence Balcombe marries up-and-coming theatre impresario Bram Stoker, and her dazzling literary salons make her the darling of the literary, theatre and art worlds in London, no one is surprised. Even if she came from humble beginnings, she was always exceptional. Now she moves in exalted circles, including those of Oscar Wilde, and Bram is managing the Lyceum for Henry Irving, the leading actor of his generation.

But appearances can be deceptive. Bram is in thrall to the tyrannical narcissist Henry, Oscar is in court for gross indecency and Florence is afraid – for her family, of the secret she keeps and of the visions of a monstrous fanged demon that haunts her by day and night.

But Florence will fight the threats that plague her family, even if it threatens her own sanity.

City girl Rowena Murray needs a new beginning, after her high-pressure career as a neonatal intensive care nurse is derailed by a monumental panic attack. She heads to rural Acacia Junction for a low-stress, short-term contract to get back in the game.

Sheep farmer Lachlan McCabe unexpectedly comes across the new nurse saving the life of the town's beloved baker after a suspected heart attack. It's not the kind of meet-cute anyone would ask for, but Rowena and Lachlan soon find sparks flying.

They're both twice-divorced and have experienced enough of life to know exactly what they want – and neither of them is looking for a long-term partner. A casual fling, on the other hand ... well, that's a different story.

Then an honest-to-God miracle offers Rowena and Lachlan an unexpected second chance they'd both thought impossible ...

Cricket is just a shy kid who likes drawing when he first meets Olympia. She's older, more confident; she bullies him into some light vandalism and instantly he's in love. They talk about their futures, how they're going to travel the world, the beauty and rapture of art.

The years and decades pile up between them, the art world seduces and disappoints and frustrates them. And they have to figure out, again and again, what it is to be an artist, and who and what to love.

This is a wild and beautiful story about two friends who want to change the world, if only they can start their own movement, dodge charlatans, remain open-eyed and open-hearted, avoid going mad, avoid dying young of rare cancers, stay true to their ideals and never tire of beauty. Not easy, but not impossible, either.

The Brain Cliff

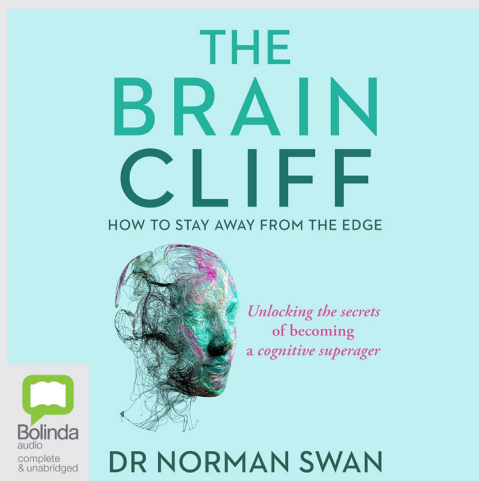

Dr Norman Swan

What many of us fear, especially as we hit our 40s and 50s, is not being as quick of mind. Not remembering as well as we used to. By our 60s and 70s we worry that we are falling helplessly into an abyss which leads to dementia.

Dr Norman Swan, one of Australia's most trusted doctors, shows us that we've been thinking about brain ageing the wrong way. It doesn't need to be about decline and deficit. It's about how to help our brains adapt, become resilient and maintain cognitive function – and it's much more than diet and exercise or our genes.

Dr Swan has interviewed people worldwide with remarkable cognitive function in their 90s and 100s. Despite their very different life stories, these cognitive superagers have lessons to help us in our 40s, 50s, 60s, 70s and beyond.

Middle Rage

Myf Warhurst

Life is messy and people are complicated, but Myf Warhurst thought she was navigating it all okay. Rocking the boat wasn't her style – she was a woman who'd grown up thinking it was her job to keep the peace.

But once she turned 50, things shifted. People seemed completely indifferent to respecting others – at the shops, on the news and in her lounge room. Warhurst's usual sunny disposition disappeared. Middle rage set in, and it wasn't pretty: all she could feel was angry.

In this honest and relatable audiobook, Warhurst gets personal about this complex midlife stage and the power it can bring. Maybe channelling her newfound rage about the world's glaring injustices into something positive will help you, and help her find her sense of humour again (though she still has no time right now for anyone's shit!).

Holding On to Happiness

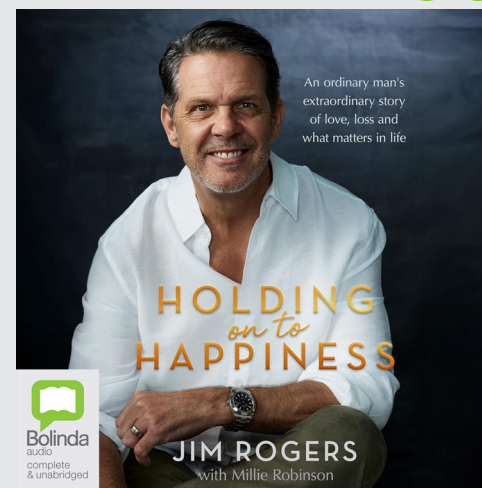

Jim Rogers & Millie Robinson

When Jim Rogers was diagnosed with early-onset Alzheimer's at just 55, life changed in an instant. For this tight-knit family, it was an unimaginable blow. But with the support of his husband and children, Rogers refused to disappear. Instead, he became one of Australia's most recognisable voices for people living with dementia, and those who love them.

Written with his daughter Millie, in Holding On to Happiness, Rogers reflects on a life shaped by heartbreak and extraordinary devotion: losing his adored wife, raising three young children through grief, rebuilding a family, and searching for meaning in the face of uncertainty.

Funny, tender and fiercely alive, Rogers's story will leave your heart fuller than before. Not just a memoir about dementia, this is a story about family, memory, identity and resilience, and a reminder to keep our hearts open during life's hardest moments.

MIRIAM'S FULL ENGLISH

A GRAND TOUR OF ALL OUR BEST BITS

Naughtiest international treasure and #1 Sunday Times bestselling author
Miriam Margolyes hilariously takes on Britain and the British.

In Miriam's Full English, she turns her documentary-maker's eye on her own backyard. After exploring the rest of the world through her much-loved BBC series, she's bringing her trademark wit to get to the heart of what is up with not just England but Scotland, Wales and Ireland too.

'It starts with the title – the joy of a Full English is in the way a whole collection of wildly different things pile together onto a breakfast plate to make a delicious whole. And well, that's the real secret of Britain and the British – not shutting things out but welcoming in more ... (I mean, even our flag is called the UNION Jack). I believe in fairness and fun, free love and free speech, and all of them are under threat. We desperately need an antidote to the naysayers and belittlers, to Nigel Farage and everyone who says "whatever". And I'm hoping this book might do the trick.'

And who better than Miriam Margolyes OBE to reunite the not terribly united Kingdom in one unforgettable audiobook.

'With her trademark wicked wit and forthright opinions, the one and only Miriam Margolyes investigates the rather Dis-United Kingdom we currently live in and offers words of wisdom and compassion to bring us all back together.'
