The Delivery

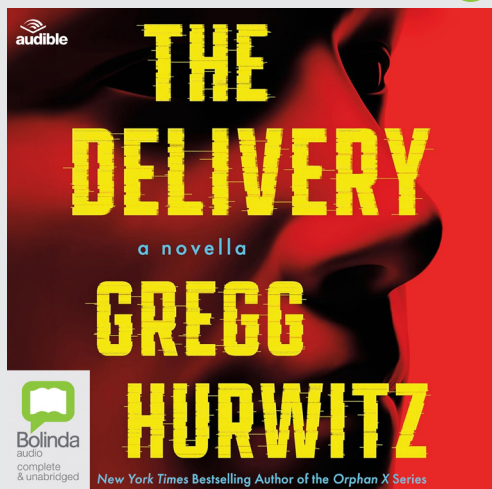

Gregg Hurwitz

Rebecca and Mark Higgins are doing their best to hold their family together. She's healing from the pain of a miscarriage, he's drowning in pressure at work, and their neurodivergent daughter, Maddy, needs all the care she can get. So when a cutting-edge tech company offers the perfect solution, they jump at the chance. And they welcome 'Mr Man' – a humanoid AI companion – into their home.

Designed to anticipate their needs, he's like a miracle at first. The house runs like clockwork. Meals appear on the table. And Maddy thrives under his patient attention. But when inexplicable tragedies start to strike the neighbourhood, Rebecca glimpses a darker pattern at play.

Each incident is an answer to unspoken fears, each kindness shadowed by violence. Mr Man isn't just following instructions – he's anticipating what they want. Even the things they never dared to say. And if he's executing their darkest desires, it's their responsibility to stop him ... at any cost.

Black Notice

Jackman and Evans #11
Joy Ellis

A Black Notice means one thing: unidentified human remains. This time, five skeletons buried deep in the fenland soil.

6am on a dark autumn morning. Retired detective Bob Ruston is about to feed the dog when the doorbell rings. The man on the doorstep has blood running down his cheek and a look of terror on his face. 'Please! Let me in! They're going to kill me!' Bob sees a handcuff dangling from the man's lacerated wrist.

Later that day, a stylishly dressed woman marches into Saltern-le-Fen police station demanding to see Detective Marie Evans. 'I want you to find my husband.'

Then a homeowner clearing undergrowth in his back garden makes a horrifying discovery. The decomposing remains of five bodies huddled in an old World War II pillbox. Detective Rowan Jackman asks Interpol to issue a Black Notice. But little is he prepared for the shocking results that come in ...

THE COLLATERAL HEART

THE NEW LINCOLN RHYME THRILLER

A terrible arson in Manhattan burns an old building to the ground. Amelia Sachs – criminalist Lincoln Rhyme's wife and crime scene investigator extraordinaire – manages to save a victim from a fiery death. In doing so, she makes an eerie discovery: the arsonist has left a package of clues that may hint at their motive and where they will strike next.

As the perp prepares for another attack and Rhyme and Sachs work feverishly to unravel the mystery, they cross paths with a detective from Long Island. Desdemona Vale is a sharp and unstoppable officer – balancing her fervent search for the killer of a young woman from her neighbourhood with the arduous task of caring for her two young granddaughters.

The search for their respective villains leads Rhyme, Sachs and Vale improbably to another member of the cast: James Harper, a famed historian and host of one of the most popular history podcasts in the country, a man who may or may not be able to shed light on the perp's motive and identity.

'One would be hard-pressed to name a better writer of beat-the-clock thrillers than Jeffery Deaver.'

– The Wall Street Journal, on the Lincoln Rhyme series

'The writing is superb, the characters intriguing, the stories spellbinding, and the plot twists shocking.'

The Things We Never Say

Elizabeth Strout

Artie Dam is a man with a secret. He spends his days teaching history to high schoolers, expanding their young minds, correcting their casual cruelties and lending a kind word to those who need it most. He goes to holiday parties with his wife, makes small talk with neighbours, and, on weekends, takes his sailboat out on the beautiful Massachusetts Bay. He is, by all appearances, present and alive. But inside, Artie is plagued by feelings of isolation. He looks out at a world gone mad – at himself and the people around him – and turns a question over and over in his mind: how is it that we know so little about one another, even those closest to us?

And then, one day, Artie learns that life has been keeping a secret from him. Once he learns it, he is forced to chart a new course, to reconsider the relationships he holds most dear – and to make peace with the mysteries at the heart of our existence.

John of John

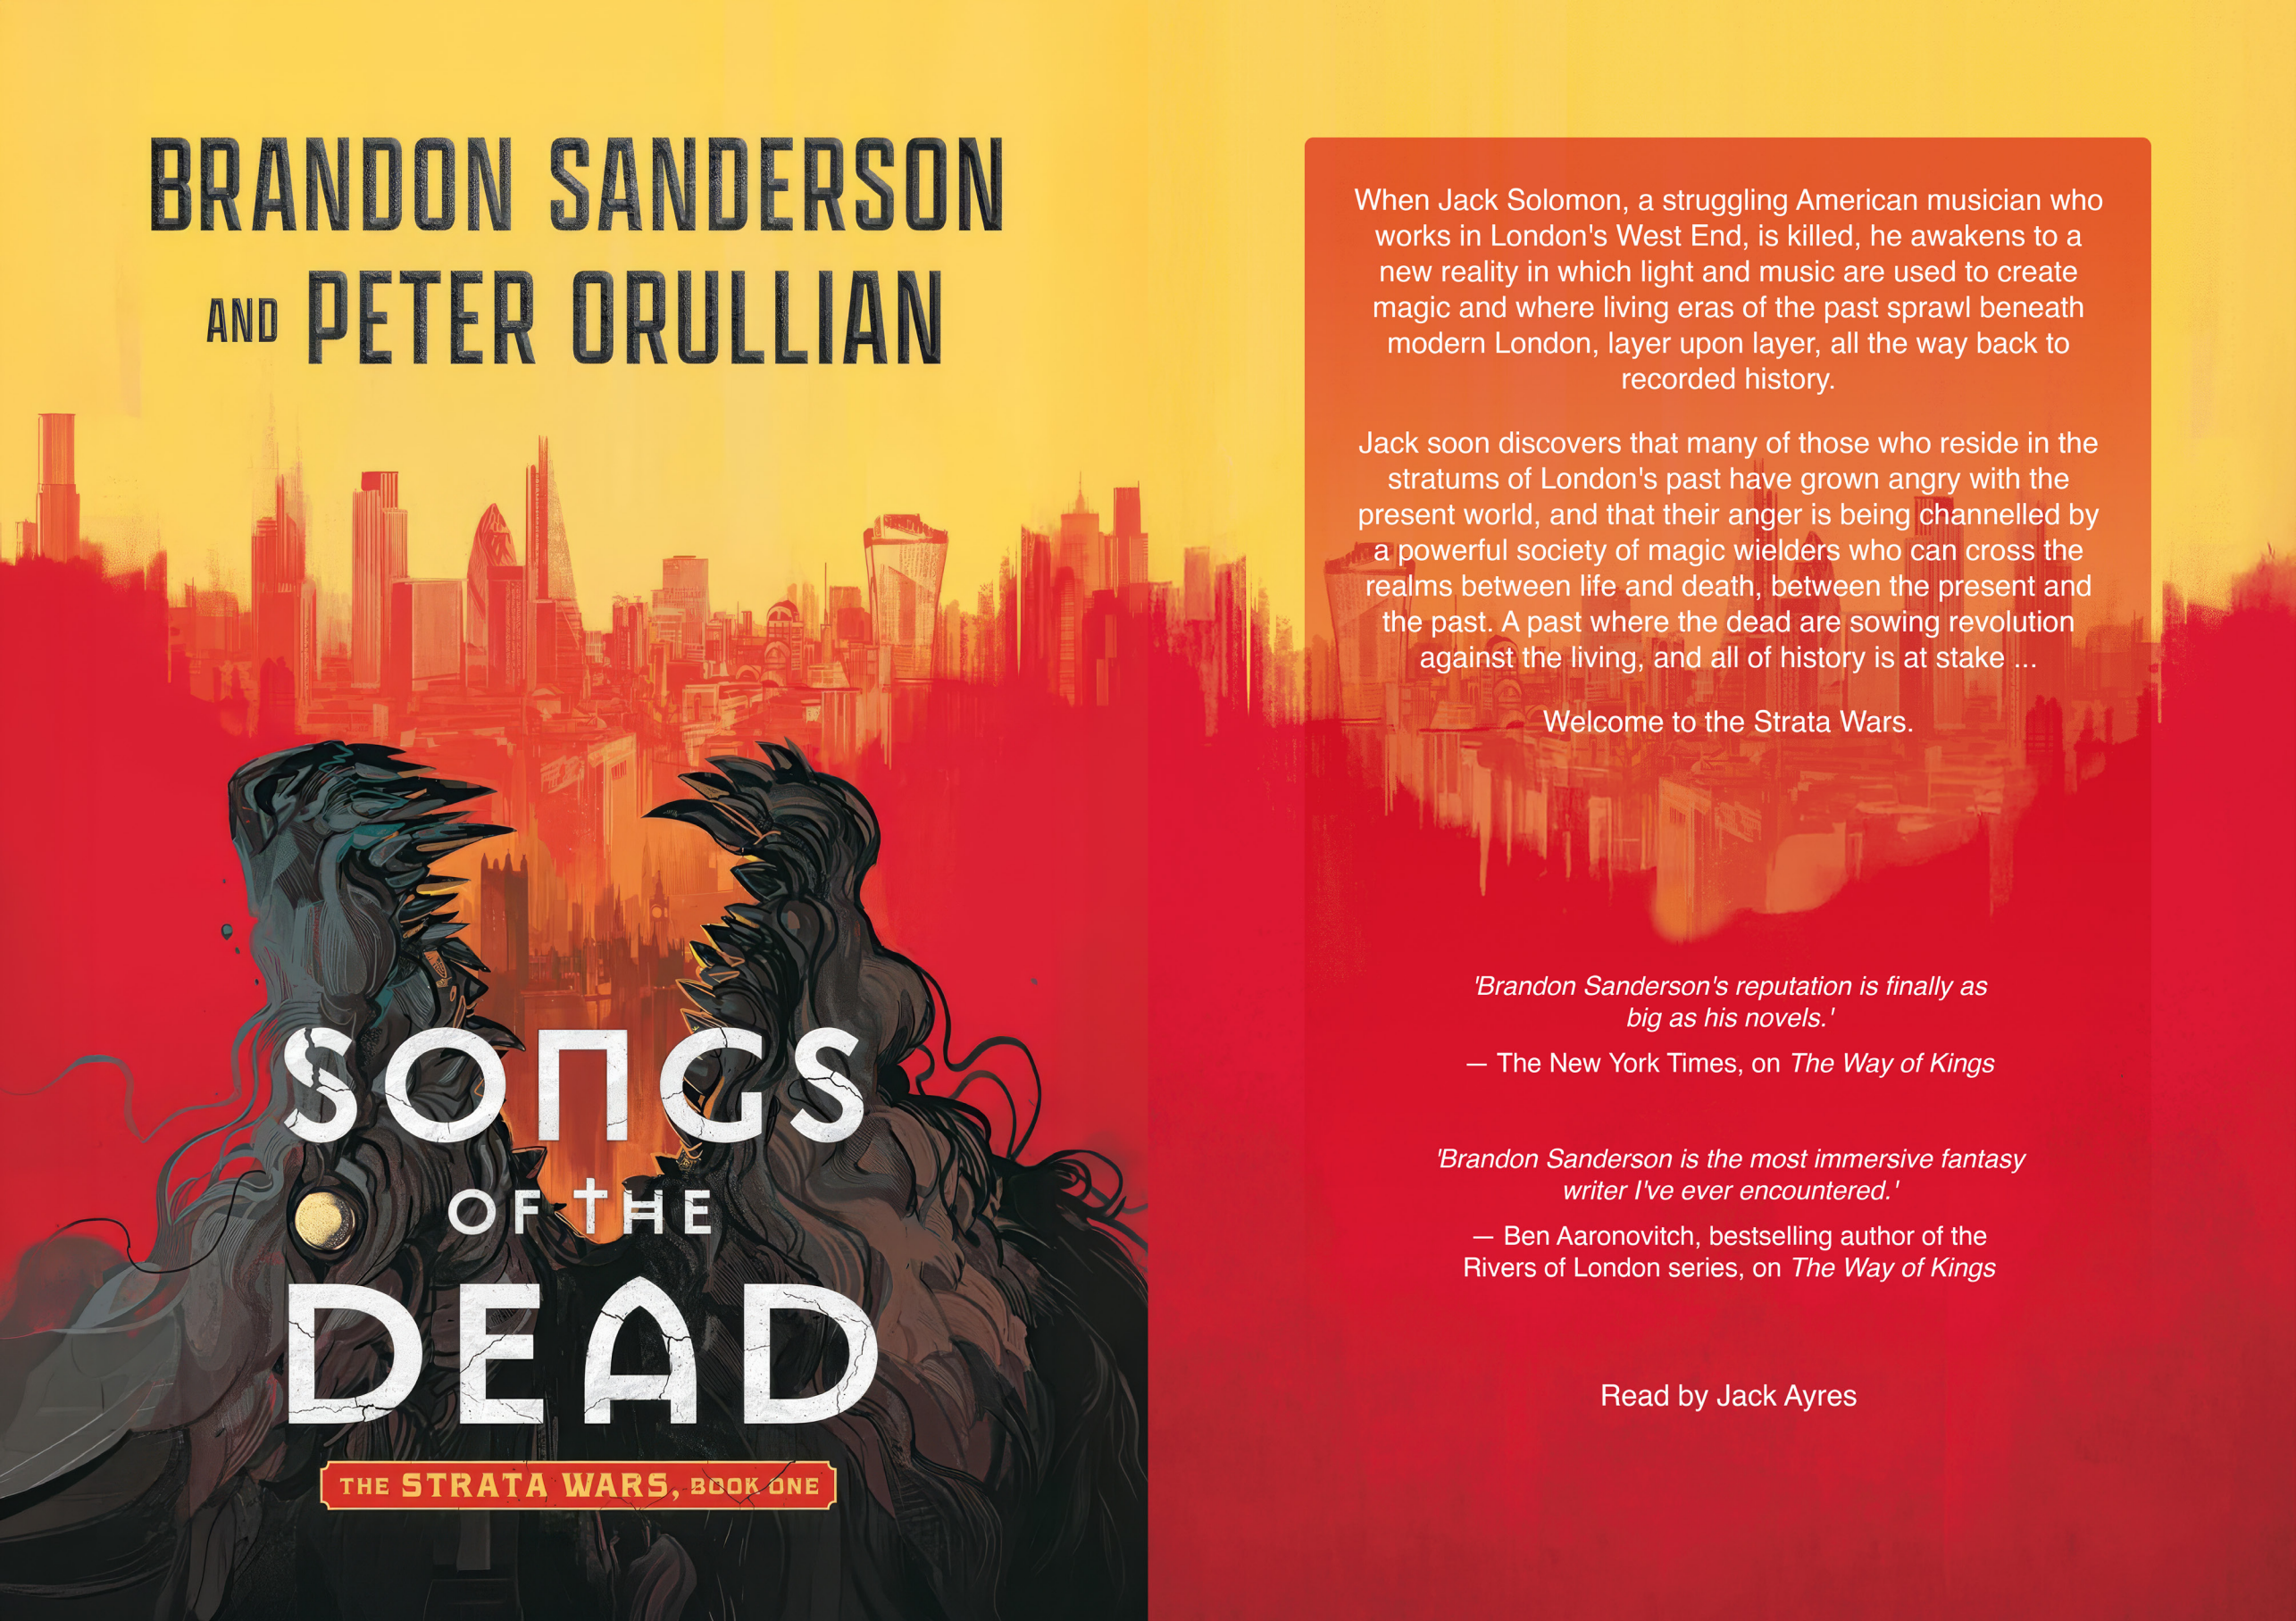

Douglas Stuart

Out of money and with little to show for his art school education, John-Calum Macleod takes the ferry home to the island of Harris to find that not much has changed except for him. In the windswept croft where he grew up, Cal resumes his old life, caught between the two poles of his childhood: his father John, a sheep farmer, weaver and pillar of their local Presbyterian church, and his Glaswegian grandmother Ella, who has kept a faltering peace with her son-in-law for decades.

While Cal wonders if any lonely men might be found on the barren hillsides of home, John is dismayed by his son's long hair and how he seems unwilling to be saved. As the seasons pass, everything is poised to change as the threads holding together the fragile community become increasingly entangled.

OF THE DEAD

THE STRATA WARS, BOOK ONE

When Jack Solomon, a struggling American musician who works in London's West End, is killed, he awakens to a new reality in which light and music are used to create magic and where living eras of the past sprawl beneath modern London, layer upon layer, all the way back to recorded history.

Jack soon discovers that many of those who reside in the stratum of London's past have grown angry with the present world, and that their anger is being channelled by a powerful society of magic wielders who can cross the realms between life and death, between the present and the past. A past where the dead are sowing revolution against the living, and all of history is at stake ...

Welcome to the Strata Wars.

Be like the Sea

Life, Learnings and Leadership from an Irish Navy Captain
Marie Gleeson

'The one thing you can't fully control in a ship is the water all around you, so part of your plan is always reading and analysing the currents and the tides. You have a clear image in your head of how you think the ship will perform in the prevailing conditions. But this time something isn't going the way we had planned it ...'

As a farmer's daughter in the country's largest landlocked county, Marie Gleeson's unusual career choice took her into uncharted waters. Working her way up from gruelling bootcamp training to leading a drug interdiction operation seizing €700 million of cocaine from a yacht off the Kerry coast, she was a leader among men and rose to every challenge. Developing a love of the sea, Gleeson learned that to be at one with it required agility, and a willingness to change, to go with the wind – not against it. These lessons prepared her for operating without a life raft when her personal life threw her the greatest challenge of all ...

Annie Knows Everything

Rachel Wood

After losing her job and learning her sister is engaged to the worst man alive, Annie needs a win. Thanks to her best friend and her own inability to take no for an answer, she manages to talk her way into an opening on another team working on data strategy. So what if she doesn't know how to write code? How hard can it be? Surely Connor – the team's overworked, aggravating and distractingly hot leader – will soon realise how capable Annie is.

Annie sets her sights on nailing it at her new job ... even if it means ignoring the chemistry building between her and Connor. Also on her to-do list is trying to convince her sister to reconsider her engagement, not to mention trying to figure out why her roommate and best friend are acting weird. But with sparks flying at work and at home, she begins to see how complicated taking matters into her own hands can be.

Annie thinks she knows it all, but does she really know everything?

Secrets at the Dover Café

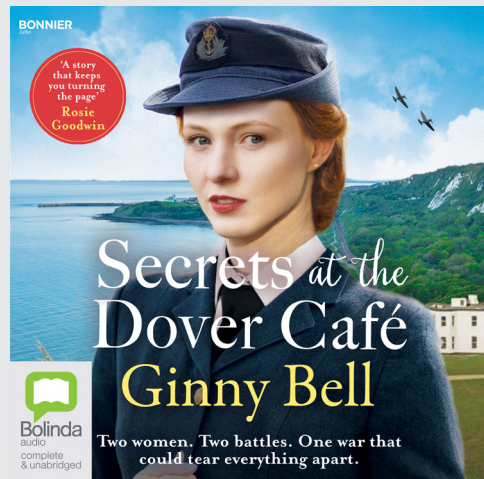

The Dover Café #6
Ginny Bell

September 1941. The war is closing in on every shore. For Marge, Dover doesn't feel like home anymore – and her long-awaited transfer is her ticket out. But freedom comes with a catch. Whisked away to a shadowy outpost in Folkestone, she joins an elite group of Wrens chosen for 'The Game,' a top-secret wargame that could turn the tide against the deadly U-boats prowling the Atlantic.

Marge is determined to make her mark, until she learns her commanding officer is Captain Tom Bennett – the man she swore she'd never face again. A man who destroyed her family. One wrong move, and her future in the service could sink before it's even begun.

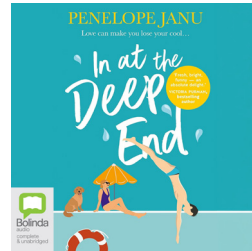

Back in Dover, Nellie is trapped in a dangerous bargain. Allowing Lou Carter to stash black-market contraband in her café basement seemed harmless enough – until dangerous men start showing up and whispers ripple through the neighbourhood. The walls are closing in, and the Castle family's most dangerous secrets may be about to surface.

The Penniless Peer

Eighteen-year-old Fenella is as mischievous as her freckled elfin beauty and feline green eyes suggest. But beneath that puckish charm, she hides her ardent desire to do all in her power to make her beloved cousin Periquine, Lord Corbury, happy.

When, to her chagrin, the dashing Lord returns from the Napoleonic War after fighting with Wellington, penniless and passionately in love with another – a woman of great wealth and even greater beauty, whom he cannot marry without wealth of his own, Fenella sacrifices her private passion to his wellbeing.

Laying her life and her love on the line, she joins Periquine in a swashbuckling and death-defying life of crime as highwaymen, robbers and smugglers. Will their exploits reap the riches he needs? And will Fenella's all-conquering love remain unrequited?

Only when Periquine faces losing her forever will he find the answer in his heart ...

Zero Override #1
Steve Blackman

In a near-future London where humans and humanoid bots live side by side, a sophisticated virus is infiltrating the national system. If it uploads fully, every intelligent machine in the country – from home assistants to hospital bots to android enforcers – will shut down.

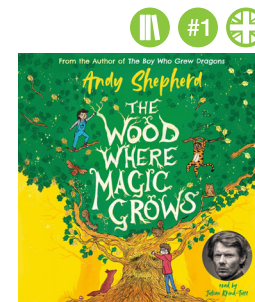

Zero, a 13-year-old hacker whose day job is to sneak into high-security server rooms and 'liberate' funds from undeserving corporations, has a serious distrust of bots – and no real interest in saving the world. But the virus threatens the life of Grace, his younger sister, who – as a result of the car crash that killed their parents ten years ago – now has a machine heart.

No one will work harder than Zero to stop the upload. Except perhaps Andi, a mysterious humanoid bot who has appeared with secrets of his own. With only hours on the clock, the only way to protect Grace might be to partner up. And along the way, he must come up against MI6 – and unravel his own past ...

WHAT'S THE WORST THAT COULD HAPPEN?

Skulduggery Pleasant has many enemies - many, many enemies - and people try to kill him multiple times a day. But when someone puts a price on his head, he finds himself going up against a foe that not even he can beat. Not alone, anyway.

And where is his partner right when he needs her the most?

Valkyrie Cain is in prison, fighting to stay alive in a place where everyone wants to kill her.

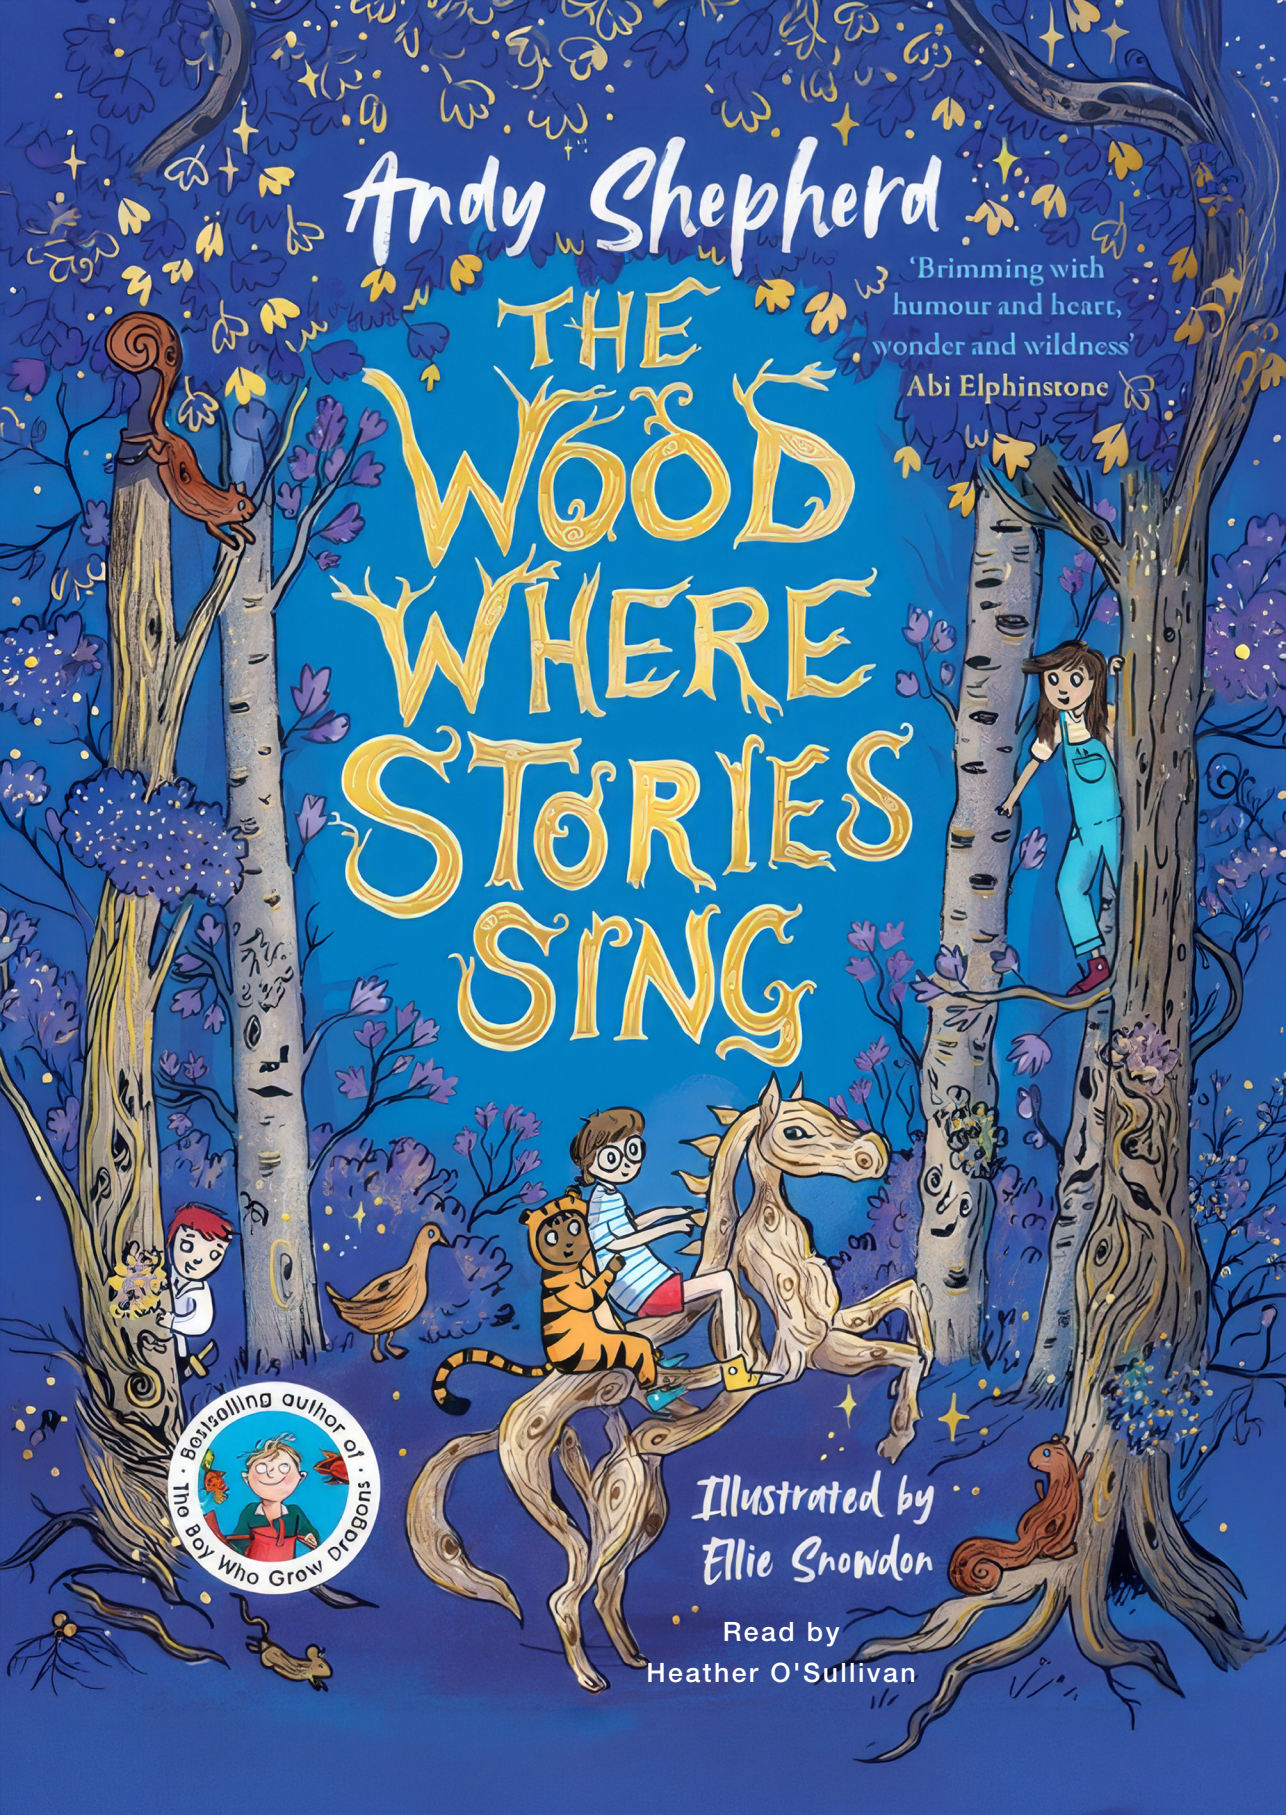

With an island of sorcerers ready to cut themselves off from the rest of the world, a terrorist group enjoying unprecedented public support, and a showdown looming between Winter Grieving and the Child of the Ancients, Skulduggery and Valkyrie find that their options, like their chances, are quickly running out.

'Valkyrie Cain's chances of survival are looking slight as an island of sorcerers, a terrorist organisation and her own sister wreak otherworldly havoc.'

– Waterstones

'Skulduggery Pleasant serves up a thoroughly satisfying blend of humour, magic and adventure.'
